

LEHIGH UNIVERSITY. The Department of Sociology & Anthropology invites applications for a tenure track position as Assistant Professor of Sociology. The successful candidate must have an active research program in comparative sociology and expertise in quantitative methodology. This position also involves participation in the Global Studies program, particularly in areas of global political economy. Candidates must have Ph.D. completed by the starting date of August 2012 and show significant evidence of research productivity and successful teaching experience.

Lehigh is a highly competitive, research-oriented private university located one hour north of Philadelphia and 90 minutes west of New York City. The Department of Sociology and Anthropology has thirteen faculty members and a Masters program in Sociology as well as undergraduate majors. We are actively involved in a variety of interdisciplinary programs. The standard teaching load is 2-2.

Candidates should email the following (as PDF attachments) to insoc12@lehigh.edu: 1] a cover letter that includes the names of four references, 2] statements of research interests and teaching philosophy (one statement for each), and 3] a curriculum vitae. Please do not send additional material at this time, and only electronic submissions will be considered. The deadline for applications is October 10, 2011.

Questions concerning the position should be directed to Heather Johnson, Search Committee Chair, at hbj2@lehigh.edu. The College of Arts and Sciences at Lehigh University is committed to increasing the diversity of the college community and curriculum. Candidates who can contribute to that goal are encouraged to apply and to identify their strengths or experiences in this area. Lehigh University is an Equal Opportunity Affirmative Action Employer and provides comprehensive benefits including partner benefits. Information about Work/Life Balance for Faculty can be found at: http://www.lehigh.edu/~inprv/work_life_balance.html